Intermediaries for Justice

IfJ is a charity with a vision

... of access to justice for all

... of a justice system where all people, including those with vulnerabilities, can understand the questions they are asked and can tell what has happened.

Registered address: PO Box 567, Beckenham, BR3 9LY

Intermediaries for Justice

Aims to:

- ✚ raise awareness of how intermediaries, as communication specialists, work within the justice system.
- ✚ share knowledge and understanding of vulnerable people's communication needs with justice professionals.
- ✚ raise awareness of the communication needs of vulnerable people.
- ✚ provide a platform for intermediaries to discuss, develop and collaborate on all aspects of their work.

Intermediaries for Justice

IfJ increases understanding, knowledge and skills by:

- ✚ providing presentations to other professionals in the justice system, such as the police and witness service.
- ✚ providing high quality workshops, seminars and conferences for IfJ members & all those with an interest in the justice system.
- ✚ promoting and supporting research in the justice system.
- ✚ establishing and maintaining links with allied organisations.

IfJ develops access to justice by:

- ✚ providing a free online referral system to solicitors and others requiring intermediary services in the wider justice system (with defendants, in family courts, tribunals and hearings)
- ✚ proactively responding to news, articles and events in the media.

IfJ shares information by:

- ✚ informing the wider public on matters of equal access to justice.
- ✚ consulting members & representing their views in response to strategies, position statements and policies in the justice system.
